- 2026 WJP Rule of Law Index® finds authoritarian practices have become entrenched
- Rising government interference and rollbacks in freedom of speech and participation demand urgent attention
- Indonesia's score decreased, ranks 9 out of 15 regionally

WASHINGTON (October 21, 2026) – The global rule of law recession persists, according to the new WJP Rule of Law Index® 2026, released today by the World Justice Project (WJP). While fewer countries declined this year compared to last, the global balance remains deeply uneven—with a 62% decline continuing to outnumber improvements—including Indonesia.

Indonesia's overall rule of law score decreased 2.3% in this year's Index. It ranks 75th out of 143 countries worldwide.

Regionally, Indonesia ranks 9th out of 15 countries in East Asia and the Pacific.* The region's top performer is New Zealand (ranked 7th out of 143 globally), followed by Australia and Singapore. The three countries with the lowest scores in the region are the Philippines, Myanmar, and Cambodia (140th globally).

In the last year, 11 out of 15 countries declined in East Asia and the Pacific. Of those 11 countries, 6 had also declined in the previous year.

Among upper-middle income countries, Indonesia ranks 21st out of 44.

Indonesia and Global trends

Authoritarianism is no longer an emerging trend—it has become entrenched: over 86% of countries have suffered a sustained five-year decline in at least one safeguard against authoritarian rule: constraints on government powers, open government, or fundamental rights. This includes Indonesia.

Freedoms essential to civic space, public debate and government oversight are shrinking across most countries:

- "Freedom of opinion and expression" declined in 64% of countries, including Indonesia.
- "Freedom of assembly and association" declined in 67% of countries, including Indonesia.
- "Civic participation" declined in 65% of countries, including Indonesia.

Across criminal and civil systems alike, undue executive pressure and interference have become the leading drivers of institutional decay. Civil justice weakened in 64% of countries and criminal justice in 58%, with improper government influence emerging as a central factor in both areas. Judiciaries are also losing ground to executive overreach more broadly: government powers limited by the judiciary fell in 63% of countries. This includes Indonesia.

However, civil justice is becoming more accessible, affordable, and equal:

- "Access and afford civil justice improved in 54%" of countries, but not in Indonesia.
- "Civil justice is free of discrimination" improved in 52% of countries, but not in Indonesia.

Index data shows that economic prosperity, price stability, and low credit risk cluster in countries with robust rule of law:

- GDP per capita: Countries with a GDP per capita above the world's average ($14,406) score 0.68 or higher in the WJP Rule of Law Index.
- Inflation: Countries with inflation rates lower than the median (3.23%) have an Index score of 0.60 or above.
- Sovereign credit ratings: Countries with an investment-grade sovereign credit rating (AAA to BBB) maintain Index scores of 0.66 or higher.

In 2026, Indonesia's overall score is 0.51.
